

I am writing to address the issue of proposing to expand LPFM that would adversely affect a radio service that I have come to value and respect...K-LOVE. K-LOVE came to the Denver community about 2 1/2 years ago. It is a positive alternative to so much of the negative, and more often than not, cras and cynical stuff that fills the airways. The language used on K-Love is clean enough for the entire family to listen to. There is no coarse joking or disrespectful talk on K-LOVE. At the same time, K-Love offers words of encouragement, interesting news from around the nation and world...including news that is different and would not normally reach the airwaves. It actually has POSITIVE news to share, as well as the big stories. K-Love is unique and keeping it's extremely powerful and positive message on air is important. It raises the standard of what is acceptable on air. The contemporary, encouraging music isn't the kind found on the huge majority of stations around the country, much less in our area, so it offers unique and beautiful alternative to the public. K-Love has spots that highlight various events in town that would be of interest to it's many listeners. The positive impact of K-LOVE would be sourly missed by the people in this area and especially the smaller communities that benefit from the excellent programming, as well as from knowing that they are a part of a bigger K-LOVE "family". The public needs to have access to such stations. We need the kind of broadcasting that doesn't erode a belief in the good, positive, simple things in life. These things seem to be chewed up and spit out by the fast paced, fast talkin', value-blasting format of most radio programming. It is imperative that we keep the airways open for K-LOVE.
